

DIRECTIONS TO THE UNIVERSITY GUEST HOUSE VIA TRAX

Service is available to the University of Utah by light rail system called “TRAX”. The University TRAX line extends from downtown Salt Lake City, heading eastbound up 400 South to campus. There are four TRAX stops within the campus itself, from the Rice-Eccles Stadium to the residence halls and the University Hospital.

It is possible to take a bus or shuttle from the Salt Lake Airport to TRAX in downtown Salt Lake City. For more information about TRAX, including maps and schedules, go to www.rideuta.com. You may also call the Utah Transit Authority at (801) 287-4636 in English or in Spanish at (801) 287-4660.

From Downtown Salt Lake City

- You may board a 702 University TRAX line train from any downtown TRAX station located on or north of 400 South.
- You may board a 703 University TRAX line train from any TRAX station located on or south of 400 South. (Note: the 703 line has a more intermittent schedule than the regular 702 University TRAX line. See www.rideuta.com for more details.)
- Purchase a ticket from the station and board any eastbound University TRAX line train.
- The station nearest the University Guest House is “Fort Douglas” at 200 South, Wasatch Drive.
- From the “Fort Douglas” station, walk west for a short distance to the stairs (or elevator) of the Legacy Bridge that crosses Wasatch Drive.
- Walk over the bridge (heading east).
- Continue up the sidewalk until you come to a road (Fort Douglas Blvd).
- Turn left at Fort Douglas Blvd. You will pass the Post Chapel on your left.
- The large building next to the Post Chapel is the University Guest House.
