

University of Utah Policies & Procedures

<http://www.regulations.utah.edu/it/index.html>

◆ Policy 4-001: University Institutional Data Management Policy

The purpose of this policy is to protect this valuable asset, permit the sharing of it through accurate and consistent definitions, and provide a coordinated approach to its use and management. In all cases, applicable state and federal statutes and regulations that guarantee either protection or accessibility of institutional records take precedence over this policy.

◆ Policy 4-002: Information Resources Policy

To outline the University's policies for students, faculty and staff concerning the use of the University's computing and communication facilities, including those dealing with voice, data, and video. This policy governs all activities involving the University's computing facilities and information resources, including electronically or magnetically stored information. Every user of these systems is required to know and follow this policy.

◆ Policy 4-003: World Wide Web Resources Policy

To outline the University's policy for students, faculty and staff concerning the use of the University's World Wide Web information resources.

- Institutional and non-institutional sites & pages
- Auxiliary Enterprises
- Academic Freedom
- Accessibility & ADA Compliance.
- Privacy
- Use of University Name, Seal, or Trademarks.
- Copyright provisions.
- Commercial speech.
- Electronic Commerce.
- Webmaster Roles and Responsibilities.
- Design Standards & required elements

◆ Policy 4-004: University Information Technology Resource Security Policy

The purpose of this policy is to secure the private sensitive information of faculty, staff, patients, students, and others affiliated with the University, and to prevent the loss of information that is critical to the operation of the University.

◆ Policy 4-005: Use and Security of Property

The purpose of this policy is to outline the university's policy toward the use of university property and the manner in which it should be safeguarded against possible loss or misuse.